Early experience with teaching sparked an holistic interest in communication through the art of music. This has led to myriad expressions of how she presents music.

Violin in hand, she has been a keynote speaker at platforms as diverse as international conferences of the European String Teachers Association, TEDxBern, TU Dublin's Conservatory of Music and Drama, the Royal Irish Academy of Music, Conservatório de Música da Metropolitana Lisbon, Swissfundraising, and a string of colleges in North America including Princeton University, Berklee College of Music, Georgia Southern University Armstrong Campus and the Faculty of Music of Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (UNAM).

Gwendolyn is an educator, musicologist and author. Aged twelve, Gwendolyn first began travelling back and forth between Dublin and Amsterdam to have regular lessons with Herman Krebbers. She discovered her curiosity for teaching during that time and began chronicling all her lessons from that point on, resulting in a vast library of written and recorded documentation. In 2009, the award-winning, Michaela's Music House, The Magic of the Violin, was published. At the time of printing, it marked her as the youngest female violinist to have penned her own method. Michaela's Music House includes her own studies and compositions and is available in English and German as part of the ESTA Edition collection available via Müller & Schade. Gwendolyn's articles have been published in The Strad Magazine and other trade journals. Her doctoral thesis from Trinity College traces, in its first half, a history of written documentation about the violin from 1750 until today. Drawing on personal experience with outstanding violinists including her own teachers, as well as representatives of all the main schools of violin playing such as Thomas Brandis, Nora Chastain, Boris Kuschnir, Gerhard Schulz, Ljerko Spiller, and Sándor Végh, the second half of the thesis is a chronicle of the contemporary history of violin, and it examines the similarities and differences within 20th-century violin pedagogy.

Gwendolyn teaches violin and chamber music masterclasses at institutes and festivals throughout Europe and North America. These include invitations to Hochschule für Musik Saar, Hochschule für Musik Franz Liszt Weimar, Franz Liszt Academy of Music Budapest, Utrecht Conservatory, HSLU – Hochschule Luzern – Musik, the IPAC Academy in Seoul, Keshet Eilon and Jerusalem Music Centres in Israel, and the University of Hong Kong Department of Music. She frequently gives masterclasses and seminars for the Swiss Music Pedagogy Association (SMPV), and the Polish Association for Chamber Musicians (Stowarzyszenie Polskich Muzyków Kameralistów). From 2013 to 2020, Gwendolyn was professor and researcher of violin studies at the Haute École de Musique de Genève, Switzerland.

In 2020, as a response to COVID-19, Gwendolyn brought her in-person retreat, The Exhale, online. The Exhale provides professional courses and holistic masterclasses to musicians, practitioners, and artists from across the globe. During its two-year online presence, it employed a team of 90 artists, and created more than 1,000 hours of classes, attracting more than 2,000 participants. Faculty members include prominent musicians from all over the world, including cellist Guy Johnston, violinists Géza Szilvay, violists Maté Szücs and Matthew Jones, bassist Leon Bosch, jazz pianist Charl du Plessis, singer Roderick Williams, conductor and bassoonist Peter Whelan and children's book author PJ Lynch.

Gwendolyn began an arts association called "Bridge Club" in 2021. Patrons of the club are invited to salon gatherings and mixed art and performance events several times a year. The club's intention is to democratise the delivery of music and the arts.

Since 2022, Gwendolyn is on the executive board of the Music Instrument Fund of Ireland, which celebrates its 30th anniversary in 2025. As of 2024, Gwendolyn is a member of the Cultural Commission of the City of Berne.

The 2024/2025 season sees Gwendolyn touring "The Journey". She conceptualised, developed, and produced the stage production with writer Lukas Bärfuss, who plays his first acting role in it. Featuring her ORIGIN Ensemble, "The Journey" will play twelve times in Switzerland and Liechtenstein during the course of the season. Further performances include solo and guest concert master appearances with Anima Musicae Chamber Orchestra; recitals with Finghin Collins in Ireland; and numerous solo performances and chamber music concerts throughout Europe.

Gwendolyn holds degrees with highest honours from the Royal Schools of Music in London, England; the Hochschule der Künste in Berne, Switzerland; the Musikhochschule in Lübeck, Germany, and a PhD from Trinity College, Ireland. Her teachers include her parents, Herman Krebbers, Igor Ozim, Ana Chumachenco, Zakhar Bron and Shmuel Ashkenasi. She is the first Licensed Body Mapping Educator (Association for Body Mapping Education) in Switzerland. The violinist has Dutch, Hungarian, Czech, Irish, South African, and Swiss background, and speaks five languages.

Gwendolyn's love of playing is founded in her voracious curiosity to understand human nature, musical expression, and the psychological connection between both. In an interview with the Basler Zeitung she explains, "The experience of live music is everything. To me, it's the ultimate form of communication, moving us into dimensions that language, for example, cannot reach. A word is not a sentence, but a note can be an entire story."
